

If the claims I have heard about this proposed legislation are correct then the fact that you only hear from media lobbyists about it is proof that deregulation has already gone to far. The if the foundation of successful democracy is an educated electorate, then the keystone is surely the fourth estate which keeps that electorate informed. Please do not allow a single (or any other small number) of corporate entities to have this powerful a control over the electorate's ability to learn about current events. It would be a disservice to that electorate and a failure of your jobs as legislators to allow this to come to pass.
